1. It is with pleasure that I officially inform you of the Security Committee's unanimous endorsement of you to serve as Chairman of our new Personnel Security Subcommittee.

2. I commend the members of your subcommittee to you. They have established a reputation for sound counsel, timely responses to tasking, and active participation. With your guidance, I'm sure the pace will be maintained.

3. You assume the chair at an exciting time. There are several issues at hand for which we have worked hard and waited long. These include indications that Executive Order 10450 will be meaningfully revised, prospects that DIS investigative standards will be upgraded, possible augmentation of departmental personnel security resources, and a general upswing in attention to personnel security matters.

4. The Adjudicators seminars, the revision of DCID 1/14 and the current effort to develop common personnel standards to support the DCI's responsibilities under EO 12333 are all substantive issues for subcommittee attention. They are issues that can help bring the Community closer together.

5. [redacted] of the SECOM staff will assist you as required. Members have assured me that they will provide knowledgeable representation, and I offer my personal support whenever you may wish it.

6. I ask that you hold meetings (and publish minutes) at least once a month. Facilities at the CIA and the Community Headquarters building can be made available for your meetings. You are invited to all meetings of the SECOM, and I'll make sure you have enough time to present reports on your subcommittee's actions. Annually, we will ask you for a report of accomplishments and current undertakings. Special reports will be brought to the attention of SECOM members. When needed we will provide guidance and resolution of problems.

7. Again, my congratulations and best wishes.
